Impaired Practitioners
 Board of Ethic's Sanctions
 (Evidence-based decision making re: Revocation)

- Reprimand: Confidential and imposed in cases where unethical conduct is of a minor nature;
- Censure: A public reprimand
- Revocation: For cases of egregious misconduct; reinstatement requires application to the BOE and the board must approve by a 2/3rds vote.
- Suspension: At the end of the period of suspension, the individual can make application directly to the Association for reinstatement
- Withholding: For applicants and/or Clinical Fellows when a violation of misconduct is found.

Impaired Practitioners

Board of Ethics Concerns
(mainly related to protection of consumers)

- No way to monitor individuals and ensure protection of consumers
 - When individual seeks reinstatement, there is no guarantee that he/she won't relapse if the board allows for reinstatement
 - Monitoring impaired professionals who have been found in violation is beyond the scope of the BOE's charge

Practitioners with Impairments

From March, 2010: Advisory Councils

- Establishing an understanding of existing resources for assisting practitioners with impairments
 - Subsequent discussions by the BOE:
 - A greater recognition of the signs of an impaired practitioner (early detection) in colleagues and in oneself.

Practitioners with Impairments

From March, 2010: Advisory Councils

- Establishing an understanding of existing resources for assisting practitioners with impairments
 - Subsequent discussions by the BOE:
 - Development of workplace guidelines concerning best practice for colleagues and employees who work with or supervise practitioners who are involved in or appear to be experiencing personal crises, unusual mental stress, or signs of mental illness.

Practitioners with Impairments

From March, 2010: Advisory Councils

- Establishing an understanding of existing resources for assisting practitioners with impairments
 - Subsequent discussions by the BOE:
 - A familiarity with support programs so individuals may access services

Practitioners with Impairments

From March, 2010: Advisory Councils

- Examine ways to enhance and facilitate effective communication between ASHA and State Licensure Boards on this and other relevant issues:
 - Subsequent discussions by the BOE:
 - Incorporate the issue into Ethics Education:
 - Prevention Model

Practitioners with Impairments

From March, 2010: Advisory Councils

- Develop an approach for practitioners with impairments that balances professional support with consumer protection:
 - Subsequent discussions by the BOE:
 - Must be mechanisms to ensure that the public is protected (close supervision, regular reports from counselors, periodic drug tests);
